

Unit 9

Sing a Song of People

Everybody seems to be in such a hurry these days! I wonder why?

Sing a song of people
Walking fast or slow;
People in the city,
Up and down they go.

People on the side walk,
People on the bus;
People passing, passing,
In back and front of us.

People on the subway
Underneath the ground;
People riding taxis
Round and round and round.

People with their hats on,
Going in the doors;
People with umbrellas
When it rains and pours.

People in tall buildings
And in stores below;
Riding elevators
Up and down they go.

People walking singly,
People in a crowd;
People saying nothing,
People talking loud.

People laughing, smiling,
Grumpy people too;
People who just hurry
And never look at you!

Sing a song of people
Who like to come and go;
Sing of city people
You see but never know!

New Words

Let's Listen

Read and listen to these two poems with your partner and find out what are the things that the village child and the city child like.

The Village Child

My home is a house
Near a wood
I'd live in a street
If I could!
I do wish someone Lived near.
There's no one to play with
At all.
The trees are so high
And so tall:
And I should be lonely
For hours,
Were it not for the birds
And the flowers.

The City Child

I live in a city
In a street;
It is crowded with traffic
And feet;
There are buses and motors
And trams.
I wish there were meadows
And lambs.
The houses all wait
In a row
There is smoke everywhere
That I go.
I don't like the noises
I hear
I wish there were woods

Around the World

A colorful illustration of a steam train. The train is dark grey with a large, sad face on its front. It has a red and white striped chimney and a yellow bell. The train is emitting a large plume of white smoke. The background is a mix of yellow, orange, and purple, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The train is on a track that curves to the left.

Which is the most interesting place you have visited?
How did you go there and return?
Have you travelled by different means of transport?
Is there a mode of transport that you would like to use?

Mr Phileas Fogg lays a bet with some of his friends to go around the world in 80 days. This is the story of how he travelled with his companion, Passepartout.

That evening they were on the train from San Francisco to New York, which was three thousand seven hundred and eighty six miles away. In seven days the train would take them from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean.

The train steamed through California at full speed. It crossed steep mountain slopes, deep canyons and hair-raising curves moving through a few tunnels and bridges.

Suddenly the train slowed down as a herd of buffaloes charged across the railway track. The train was forced to stop till the procession passed like a great brown river. The herd took a full three hours to cross the tracks. Night had fallen by the time the train could move again.

The train headed for the steep mountains. This was the most difficult part of the journey with its winding roads. They passed the highest point of their journey, 7524 feet above sea level. In a few hours they would be out of the Rocky Mountains.

After the passengers had taken their breakfast the train gave a shrill whistle and braked with a jerk and came to a halt. Passepartout, a French passenger went to see what the matter was. There was nothing to be seen. The train had halted in the middle of nowhere. There was no station in sight.

He heard the signalman say, "The train can't go on. The bridge near Medicine Bow won't support the weight." It was a suspension bridge and some of its cables were broken.

The driver of the train said, "Perhaps there is a chance of getting across the bridge by letting the train proceed at maximum speed."

"All aboard," said the conductor. The passengers got on the train and the driver reversed the train for nearly a mile. Then he gave another whistle. The train began to move forward so fast that it was frightening. The passengers had the feeling that the train was not resting on the tracks but was floating through air. As the engine shrieked and the train shuddered they were over the bridge in a flash!

As soon as they passed over the Medicine River, the bridge crashed down into the raging waters below. The train continued its course that evening without interruption.

As the train moved forward the next day, it was suddenly attacked by hundreds of Sioux Indians (a tribe of native Red Indians). Many of them appeared from all sides, jumped on to the moving train and pulled themselves up the steps. They were armed with rifles. Some of the travellers had revolvers. They defended themselves bravely by answering with pistol shots.

The conductor cried out, "The train must be stopped or we are lost!" "I will go," said Passepartout. He opened a door and unseen by the Red Indians he slipped under the racing train, and holding on to the chains he slowly reached the engine. Then he separated the engine from the coaches. They started to slow down.

They had neared a station where soldiers, attracted by the sound of shots, hurried towards the train. The Red Indians on board saw them and quickly jumped off before the train stopped entirely.

I hope that someone in some strange land will find them and know who I am.

And hope that these blooms of the dawn will be carried safely to land in the night.

THEMES

Travel
Regard for others
Adventure
Imagination
Familiarity with reading maps

READING TIME

This lesson is an extract from the original book, Around the World in Eighty Days by Jules Verne. The children could be asked to read the book and also read other books based on travel in India and abroad. They can be encouraged to read stories like Treasure Island, Sinbad the Sailor and share interesting facts about them in class.

CONVERSATION TIME

Why do people travel — to see a new place, for business etc. — the teacher should conduct a brainstorming session of ideas.

The teacher could discuss the various means of transport, both ancient and modern, and how travel is getting more and more luxurious nowadays.

What are the important things to keep in mind while travelling, what are the risks and hazards involved, how to read maps, signs, landmarks etc., are some of the topics that should be discussed.

WRITING TIME

Students could frame some questions of their own to interview the teacher by using the given questions as a guideline.

The paragraph on the children's favourite means of transport could also include their personal experience of travelling by it.

PROJECT WORK

The children could find out in detail about any one of the Seven Wonders of the World. The picture and the related paragraph could be displayed in the class.
